

Hi, I'm a developer that loves clean & elegant code.

A little about me.

My tech journey started with a degree in journalism. I loved researching, writing, and sharing my voice online, but something felt missing. I wished for a way to share and display information exactly the way I wanted. That's when I discovered and fell in love with coding and web design!

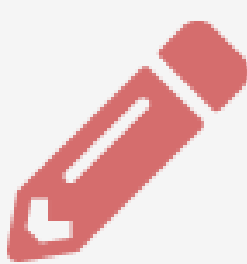

As a front end developer, I pride myself on writing code that's easy to read and build upon while still looking great. My goal with every site is to provide a top-of-the-line user experience. Besides web development, I enjoy gardening and spending time with my small (but growing!) family

Developer Skills

HTML & CSS

I pride myself on my organized and well-formatted HTML and CSS. All my code is tested to ensure it's valid, accessible for all users, and works great on the major browsers.

Design to Code

If you have a design, I can turn it into a website! I'll use the exact colors, fonts, and imagery you need. You provide the design comp, and I'll code up a site just for you.

Git & GitHub

I never work on a project without my best friends Git and GitHub! I can collaborate with your team on any codebase and adjust to your team's version control workflow.

Like What You See?

Let's meet for a cup of coffee.
 hi@JubileeAustin.com

Or, follow me on social media:

